I am an experienced industrial marketing consultant, presently doing consultancy for more than three leading local and multinational companies. I am passionate about the local brands to grow and make a place in this world as our people and products are extremely good but they do not know how to market their products and brands. I want to help every local business to develop their own brand locally and internationally. Most of the entrepreneurs thinks that this is very expensive and they waste a lot of time in thinking this and lose the sight of the goals.

That's where I come in and help them to have a mission and vision and patience to introduce their brands.
